

Azure

- Azure App Config

Azure App Config

If a value was not in the azure app config before the function app started up, changes to that value will not be propagated to the app until it is restarted.

- This is still just a theory, we have not extensively tested it
- Make sure you put the values in the azure app config that the application needs before releasing the change that will use that setting