

Batch Worker Processing

TimeTriggerWorkerThreadCount

The `TimeTriggerWorker` in the Batch Worker, processes expired governance settings. By default, it does this one at a time, but can be adjusted to process in a multithreaded manner by setting the `TimeTriggerWorkerThreadCount` app setting.

In August of 2024, we realized this setting was set to the default value of 1, and had about 100k expired settings it was backed up in processing. We have since bumped it much higher.
